What Do You Say ?

GOING TO THE COUNTY FAIR AUG. 16-19? WHAT'S YOUR FAVORITE EVENT ?

BRUCE KENDALL, building supply manager: "Sure, I always take the family. My wife and I prefer the floral exhibits because we've got our own garden we're very interested in. Our little girl likes the school displays, and of course we do too. We certainly wouldn't miss it."

HOWARD LEVINSON, men's store salesman: "Of course, I always go. I understand it's going to be bigger and better this year and I'm expecting proportionally increased good time. I've always been a soft touch for county fairs and circuses. The Horses Show ought to be a top event..."

FRED KOEHL, real estate salesman: "I'm going, as always. I like the whole darned works. It's a grand institution and I hope everyone will go so it'll continue for years..."

BEN SOWELL, insurance broker: "Oh, sure, sure. Never miss it. The Horse Show is tops with me. However, I wish they'd bring back horse racing like they used to have at one time. Eight races a day, three days of the week. It would bring a lot of people and a lot of money to the Peninsula. Look at the Del Monte sports car races. This would be as big or a bigger draw..."

FANTASY OF FASHION

Harriet Duncan will present a Fantasy of Fashion during the cocktail hour, from 3-4 o'clock, on Sunday, June 10, at the Rancho Del Monte Country Club in Carmel Valley.

Miss Duncan will also show bathing suits from Putnam and Raggett. Eighteen models will participate.

DOG SHOW CONTEST TO FOSTER WINDOW WATCHERS

Window shopping will pick up noticeably in Carmel between now and June 10, the date of the 26th Annual Del Monte Kennel Club to be held at Del Monte Lodge at Pebble Beach. For dog fans who think they know a Newfoundland from a Griffin, merchants' windows will be the source of three possible prizes donated by the Club for persons first correctly identifying the 20 dogs shown in window posters all over town.

First prize is a photo of winner's pet by Shirley Stoddard; second prize, six free tickets to the dog show; third prize, a merchandise order at Derek Rayne, Ltd.

Flying from New York, where he will have just finished a show, is Mr. Arthur Zane, of Honolulu, world's foremost authority on German shepherds, who will judge this show. Although other dog shows throughout the country have fallen off this year, the Del Monte event shows an increase over last. Over 100 breeds of dogs, including a number of entries from out of state, will make this an outstanding show.

AT THE HILL

The finest film ever to be shown at the Hill Theater is scheduled there for the last three days of May, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The picture is "The Devil's Envoys," starring Arletty. It is a companion piece to the already familiar and well-acclaimed "Children of Paradise,"

HISTORY AND ART ASSOCIATION THEATRE PARTY

"The Working Girl's Wrongs," at California's First Theatre, State Monument," Monterey, will be the scene of the History and Art Association's annual theatre party, following the Merienda tomorrow. Since the Monterey Association sponsored the reopening of California's First Theatre in 1937, on June 3, the birthdays of Monterey and the First Theatre fall on the same day, and ever since that time the History and Art Association has had a theatre party on the night of the Merienda.

Following the hilarious show and olio tomorrow night, the Association will serve refreshments, while strolling musicians add to the general gaiety and color. Often, members of the Association come in costume of "old Monterey." Among those who will be at the First Theatre are Newton Drury, Chief of the Division of Beaches and Parks; Thomas Norris, president of the History and Art Association, with Mrs. Norris; the Spanish Consul, Mrs. William O'Donnell, La Favorita, Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Dormody, Ted Clark, Col. and Mrs. Mason, and many others.

While the History and Art members are holding their party, the attendance is not limited to them, tickets being on sale to the public as usual, so long as they last.

TO THE GRADUATES

For some of the tens of thousands of young Americans now preparing to graduate from high schools and colleges it is the final goodbye to the relatively carefree life of the classroom. For others, especially those finishing high school, it's a matter of choice whether to go on to higher learning or to enter the business world.

The temptation is strong to skip further schooling and take advantage of the well paying jobs created by the re-armament program. But however attractive the immediate gains might be in taking a permanent position, the high school graduate should weigh the long range factors also. In this day of specialization the fellow who cuts short his formal education may find his opportunities cut short too, unless he has most unusual talents. Economic necessity in some instances, of course, dictates the pattern. However, scholarship grants such as the statewide Achievement Awards program are helping to fill the gap. Too much cannot be done to encourage youngsters to continue their studies and to make it financially possible.

Higher education alone will not make a man successful. It's what he does with his training that counts. But all things being equal, the fellow who knows the most has the best chance of getting to the top.

We recommend that for the consideration of every high school graduate.

D-DAY 1944

The beginning of the end took place on the beaches of Normandy seven years ago, on June 6. The man who directed that attack, General Eisenhower, is back in Europe again to work on the job he once believed he had finished. But he has learned in the past seven years, as have we, that in defeating one enemy, the Germans, we greatly helped another, the Russians.

All during the time the Soviets were fighting the Nazis they were also fighting us, educating their people against their "greatest danger"--American capitalism. When they no longer had the Germans on the east front to contend with, they turned their full attention to undermining us and to establishing the "fact" that they had won the war singlehandedly.

Well, the Soviets have a convenient memory but ours is not so short as to forget June 6, 1944, and the subsequent march to victory.

SALINAS RODEO PLANS NEAR COMPLETION

Cowboys throughout the nation were reminded today that June 11 is the last day they can sign up for the competition in the four-day California Rodeo in Salinas June 21-24.

With more than 200 of the top-ranking arena performers anticipated, no more entries will be received after that date, Roy Hubbell, arena secretary, said.

June 11 is also the deadline for the signing up of tract performers, Dr. E. J. Leach, in charge of that phase of the show, declared.

More than $40,000 will be won by the cowboys and some $15,000 will be paid out to the tract participants for a grand total of more than $55,000.

Water Gates

The water gate with which you are most familiar is the faucet in your home, that little unit which holds the water back, or lets it flow, according to your wishes. But the faucet is only one of a great number of gates, or valves, in the water system which serves you.

Valves, placed strategically throughout the complicated network of distribution pipes, are important items in the operation of a water works since they control the volume and direction of flow from source to you.

Water gates represent a substantial investment as many of them are used in a system such as this and large stocks of various types are kept on hand at all times for installation and repair requirements. Costs of valves vary with size and type, running as high as the price of an expensive automobile for very large ones.

OFF TO THE RACES WERE MANY PEBBLE BEACH PEOPLE AND GUESTS

The 2nd Annual Pebble Beach Sports Car Road Races, on Sunday, the 26th, over the scenic tree-lined Pebble Beach course, was the highlight of last weekend, bringing dozens of prominent Bay Area residents to the Monterey Peninsula.

Among those hosting house parties for the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osborne, who had Mr. and Mrs. John Beverly Nickel and Mr. and Mrs. Gardner W. Mein with them. Friday night the Osbornes planned a cocktail party for the visitors.

Mrs. Alma W. McKeever had the Charles Fays as her weekend guests, and Mrs. McKeever drove her new Riley convertible in the "Concours d'Elegance" Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison A. Holt had the Arthur B. Dunnes and the Brooks Walkers as their house guests for the Races, and Saturday night joined a large group for dinner dancing at the Beach Club.

Mrs. Sidney Webster Fish had the Selby McCreerys as her house guests, and Stuyvesant Fish's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Carver, Mr. and Mrs. "Sandy" Lewis, Countess Pepe de Sugny, Frants Lassen, David Park. Mr. Fish invited a large group of friends for cocktails, Saturday night, at "Palo Corona Ranch."

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tevis were guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tevis, in Carmel.

Mrs. Henry Potter Russell brought a group of friends from San Francisco to her Carmel Valley ranch for the festivities. Gorham Knowles occupied his mother's home (Mrs. Wynn Meredith) in Pebble Beach, and Mrs. Dorothy Earle of Santa Barbara was among his guests.

ard Hyde of Atherton, and Mrs. Charles Howard of San Mateo weekended with Mr. and Mrs. William L. Hudson in Pebble Beach.

Peter Hately invited Daphne Dibble and Crawford Greene, Jr., to be his guests at the home of his mother, Mrs. Allen Griffin and Colonel Griffin in Pebble Beach for the Races.

Mr. and Mrs. George Helmer, Mr. and Mrs. Howland Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seligman, Mr. and Mrs. John McWhorter, Mr. and Mrs. George Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Musto, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Saxe, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Rex Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. James Watriss, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thieriot, and many, many others were on hand at Pebble Beach for the weekend activities.

Mrs. J. Dixon Silverthorne planned a luncheon for visitors Sunday noon, and since hers was the only home on the course it was a very popular rendezvous.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Christenson occupied his mother's home (Mrs. Eleanor Cates) in Pebble Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hastings joined them for the weekend.

At Sunday night's Award Dinner at Del Monte Lodge, Miss Janet Folsom had as her guests Mrs. Jehanne Havens-Monteagle, and Mrs. Spencer Martin (Pat Monteagle), who were out from New York for a visit with their mother.

ENJOYING THE SUNSET on the terrace overlooking the swimming pool at the Carmel Highlands Inn were Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Delaplane, weekend Peninsula visitors, who departed Monday for Hawaii on the "Lurline." Delaplane, San Francisco newspaper columnist, whose daily "Postcard" has gained him a wide following in Northern California, was househunting for a summer home in Carmel in order to spend his vacation here writing a book based on his recent trips to Europe and South America and to prepare material for his coming fall television debut. A FULL HOUSE PACKED the Carmel Valley Barn Theater on its opening night, May 30, to watch the 3-act drawing room comedy, "Stepping Sisters." On stage, left to right, Millie Kimball tries to restrain tipsy ex-burlesquer Barbara Norberg with the help of Madeleine Powers Leoni, the three cast as the hilarious trio of ex-strippers, all trying to forget their past.

Directed by David Eldridge, "Stepping Sisters" was the first production of this brand new Carmel Valley show house converted from a barn this spring by Kenn I. Smith. Photographs by GEORGE SMITH.

REHASHING THE PREMIERE of Carmel Valley Barn Theater's "Stepping Sisters," which they have just seen, are Mrs. E. B. Short (left) of Carmel, and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Cordrey of Carmel Valley, as they have a snack and refreshments at the after show First Nighter party held for cast and friends at Los Laureles Lodge by hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brook. Mrs. Cordrey designed and decorated the sets for the play.

"STEPPING SISTERS" OPENS CARMEL VALLEY BARN THEATER WITH BARREL OF LAUGHS

"Stepping Sisters," first production of the brand new Carmel Barn Theater, played to a packed house opening night, on Memorial Day, and the first night audience said "yes" with seven curtain calls and applause through all the acts. It was a combination of the actors striking the fire and the excellent direction of veteran direction of veteran director David Eldridge. Added to this, the picturesque barn theater proved comfortable, well arranged, and intimate enough to keep actors and audience in close rapport.

Inasmuch as it was not only the play's premiere but that of a Carmel Valley stock theater movement, the initial conquest heartened everyone, including the audience. We were prepared to qualify any praise with the observation that over half the cast had never trod a stage before, but it turned out to be unnecessary. Several first timers turned in performances of almost veteran calibre.

The play concerns three ex-burlesque queens who meet again through chance, each anxious to conceal her identity for a different reason. There is "Queenie," the reformed stripper turned Shakespearean actress, By Barbara Norberg, whose performance won several spontaneous ovations for a riotous drunk scene, and another which would have made Shakespeare turn to drink as well. Madeleine Powers Leoni, as "Cissy," another of the burly-girlies, now a society dowager, handled her first stage appearance with excellent stage presence and timing in the longest role in the script. Another new actor, Douglas Bradburn, was equally self possessed and played his lines like a vet as the alternately irascible and wistful husband caught with his girl friend. Millie Kimball, also in her first play, gave an assured and vibrant rendition of Rosie, the gusty third ex-spear carrier out after a man. Esther Fleharty, already well known to Peninsula theater, helped jell the play with her smooth comico member of a triumvirate of social biddies. Pretty Sali Dalton, playing opposite Lt. (J.g.) H. G. McGrath, made for a delightful bit of romantic interest. Ollie Brook and Barbrajean Verga as blue nose society dames were exceedingly funny. However no one in the show stole more laughs per word than Navy Lt. Harry Evans, the rather vaporous young man "Teddy." Bob Jones, as the butler, will doubtless receive bids to start a catering service.

Sets by Tommy Cordrey and Wes Fleharty were excellent, as was the play's costuming. Betty Riley handled props and Arthur Pircaithley was stage manager. Lastly, Kenn Smith, owner-producer of the Barn Theater, must be congratulated for bringing this fine entertainment facility to the Carmel Valley. The play continues through this Saturday, and three more successive weekends, Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays.

ICE FOLLIES JUNE 20

Opening night seats for the Ice Follies of 1951 will be available this year to the public. In past years the reserved seats for the gala, colorful opening were optioned far in advance.

Although the Children's Theatre Association will sponsor the event as a charity, as in former years, the management has retained, this year, an ample number of opening night tickets for regular patrons and box office sales.

The opening of the Ice Follies has long been one of the most glamorous and brilliant events in San Francisco's entertainment life.

The Ice Follies opens at Winterland, Wednesday evening, June 20, at 8:30. Out-of-town patrons may still order opening night tickets by mail.

PERFUME NAMED FOR CARMEL

Newcomers to Carmel are Charles and Nicole Altair, formerly of La Selve Beach, near Santa Cruz. Their daughter, June, recently left for a visit in Europe.

Nicole Altair has opened The French Shop in the Golden Bough Court and is featuring Brise de Carmel, one of her many perfumes.

Nicole inherited the rare gift of a "nose" for perfumes. Her husband is descended from a long line of renowned French compounders, and when destiny brought these two together they combined their talents--her inspiration and his scientific genius--to make a dream come true. This dream, begun and evolved in Paris, has been for them a labor of love, involving 30 years of dual research and experimentation for perfection. Here, at last, the denouement--four great fragrances called The Seasons--the perfumes Nicole now proudly presents in The French Shop, along with 24 different types of French perfumes, in bulk, which can be poured into the purchaser's own bottles.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Our this week's "Who Is It?," Major General Robert B. McClure, recently come to command the all important activities at Fort Ord, is one of the most interesting and widely experienced men to come to the Monterey Peninsula. Although a Georgian by birth and education, he was trained not only at New York Military Academy, Cornwall, but at the U.S. Naval Academy as well. In 1917, he entered the U.S. Army "as a very expendible second lieutenant," but before he was 22 years old had been promoted to a platoon company and batallion commander in France. Wounded, he was returned to six months of U.S. hospitalization, and from there to duty at New York Military Academy as professor of military science and tactics (P.M.S.T.) until 1925.

From then on many branches of military science became sources of interest and study. Graduation from tank school at Fort George Gordon Meade was followed by graduation from infantry school at Fort Benning, Georgia. After that, China and four years of service there with the 15th Infantry at Tientsin. Return to the United States and service with the 29th Infantry at Fort Benning was followed by more study, this time at Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Two years at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and completion of the Field Officers' course at the Chemical School, Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland, preceded training at the Army War College, Washington.

The year 1939 saw Major General McClure with the Hawaiian division of the 35th Infantry at Schofield. While there he became G4-Assistant Chief of Staff of Supply and Construction in command of the 35th Infantry of the 25th Division. The now famous 24th and 25th Divisions, fighting so heroically in Korea, were organized from the old Hawaiian division and it was to the 25th Division that General McClure was assigned. In command of the 35th Infantry regiment, part of this 25th Division, he was sent to Guadalcanal after the Japanese attack on Hawaii. It was during action on Guadalcanal, incidentally, that our present Chief of Staff earned his nickname, "Lightning Joe" Collins. And it was after that, in 1943, that General McClure was made Brigadier General and Assistant Division Commander to General Collins. During this period of service two additional military operations were engaged in--the taking of New Georgia Island and Munda Air Field in Japan, as as well as the later taking of Vella-la-Vella which cut off the Japanese force on Kolombangara Island.

Major General McClure's next return to the United States was for the purpose of becoming Lord Louis Mountebatten's Assistant Chief of Staff, G3, for the southeast Asia Anglo-American Staff, and it was at this time that he became two-star commander of the 84th Division, which had been in training for 14 months at Fort Claiborne, Louisiana. "But since Louisiana at that time of year was more dismal than the South Pacific, I wrote my good friend, "Bull" Halsey, and asked for a combat job." This time it was back to Bougainville to relieve General John R. Hodge, then in command of the Americal Division, he only division of World War II to have a name instead of a number. In command of this division in operations against Japan until 1944, General McClure was then ordered to China as Chief of Staff to Generalissimo Chiang-Kai-Shek. During operations at this time he had officers and men serving with 79 Nationalist Chinese divisions. At the subsequent surrender of General Okumura to the Chinese, Major General McClure represented the United States government. Until June, 1946. he worked on the reorganization of the Chinese Ministry of Defense and set up the first military mission to China. A short return to the United States preceded a return to a Far Eastern Command, and this was later followed by a quick summons, in 1950, to Korea and command of the 2nd U.S. Division, which is doing such a magnificent job there now.

The first three months of this year found Major General McClure in Tokyo, but in March he again returned to the States to take command of Fort Ord. "I like this spot tremendously, and hope I can remain here for several years. I welcome this opportunity to reassemble all my material possessions and to see what I have left!"

GITTELSON EXHIBIT HELD OVER AT AGA Inc. GALLERIES

Harold Smithson, president of Artists Guild of America, Inc., in Carmel, announces the continuance of the Anders Gittelson exhibit of oils at their galleries, through June 10.

Gittelson's paintings have aroused widespread attention as the result of this young artist's unusual technique, which parallels strikingly the methods of the old Dutch and Flemish masters.

Following the Gittelson exhibit will be a group showing of seventeen outstanding artists.

POLICE CALL

Carmel librarian called stating trouble in closing library because man refused to leave. Difficulty settled by police who lured him out upon promise of another book which otherwise would be handed him at police station.

Checked parked car, found beer box on front seat loaded with coffee grounds, two or three empty pint whiskey bottles, suggesting coffee royale party.

Car parked on wrong side of street ticked by CPD officers. Owner showed up, seeming much surprised, stating: "What, in this one horse town? I get a citation for parking on the wrong side of the street? This isn't even a city." Police informed him Carmel was incorporated city, the one-horse label solely matter of personal opinion, also he would get second ticket unless he moved on. Man refused. Officers went once around block. Man, seeing them return, drove off, presumably Carmel Unincorporated, to sulk.

Reported large amount building material being pilfered from vacant lot storage area, asked police to be on alert. Culprits had best watch out. At present building material prices, one eighteen foot two-by-four could get them grand larceny stretch.

Biggest batch of trouble this week tied together three grass fires, two attempts at arson, one house-sacking. Police called to investigate looting of Carmel home left unlocked during owner's absence. Owner returned to find candle lit and burning beneath curtains, fortunately not close enough to ignite. In bedroom all neckties piled on bedside table. Beneath them two boxes wooden matches piled and set afire. No damage but scorched table top. Rest of house ransacked and contents strewn about. Police left, were called again by owner stating fire started under caterpillar tractor located 20 yards away, also two small grass fires in neighborhood. Among other things, police are looking for: one large sterling silver knife with prints of flowers on handle, one large German silver knife, one large carving knife with white bone handle.
